Comments: The focus on wild horses is just to distract from the massive destruction that the livestock industry causes.

However, the reality is that wild horses are only bit players in a very real, West-wide ecological battle in which the livestock industry is the principle antagonist. Domestic cattle and sheep (not horses) are the most significant overpopulated invasive species, competing for the public land that our wildlife - elk, mule deer, pronghorn, and bighorn sheep - need to survive. This is all about Greed !
