Comments: Regarding the Heber Wild Horse Territory Management Plan Project, please consider HUMANE alternatives to "managing" the horses. Darting horses with birth control is a HUMANE option. 20,000 acres is plenty of land for these horses to live. These horses are, "Wild horses are a genetic mix of the domestic breeds that once escaped from Spanish explorers, Western settlers, ranchers and Native American tribes. They're not a native species but were determined by Congress to be an integral part of the landscape under the landmark federal act. "Wild" is a legal status given to unbranded and unclaimed horses on public land." Therefore, these horses should be left alone unless a HUMANE birth control option is implemented, (darting horses with birth control). Removing animals should NEVER be an option. Let the wild horses stay in their home.
