Comments: To whom it may concern,

I am beyond disgusted and frankly flabbergasted that this proposal would even be entertained by people whose job it is to protect the sacred foundations of wilderness. I live in the shadow of the glorious Sandias in Placitas and I am in awe every day of its beauty and holy standing. To deface a mountain that is not only ecologically invaluable, but represents cultural and spiritual beliefs to the people who existed within its sites far before the US Forest Service was ever conceived is the height of irresponsibility and violent white supremacy posing as leisure. Let the mountain stand as is and give Cliffs the money for a new coaster. Shame on whoever supports this, and shame for centuries more on you if the coaster is erected.
