Comments: I suspect that the decision to grant permission for this heinous violation of a natural environment has already been made. This "opportunity" for public comment is the usual nonsense that allows us to think we don't live in a money-driven oligarchy. But, true as that may be, remember that the institution that grants the permission is and always has been all about money. Not the natural environment. Just money. Protect the forest so that you can sell its "products". I also doubt that this comment will be published anywhere
