Comments: It's frankly ridiculous that the Forest Service is arguing that they don't need to conduct a full Environmental Impact Statement for this project. The cumulative and indirect impacts will be large and should be considered. Increased traffic, noise, damage to habitat, visual impacts, and many others need to be fully considered.

Beyond that, I believe that because the mountain is sacred to Sandia Pueblo, they should have considerable input and the final say on the project. Have you adequately consulted with them?
