Comments: This plan of creating a year round attraction including a rollercoaster would be disastrous for the wildlife and general ecosystem of the Sandia Mountains. Albuquerque, NM not only already has an amusement park, but hosts New Mexico's annual State Fair, as well. Along with these, the Tram up the Sandia Mountains and the ski resort offer plenty of tourist attraction. To go through with such a massive construction project would alter the wildlife of the Sandias in a very negative way, an ecosystem already threatened by drought, climate change, and already present attractions. Albuquerque does not need another amusement park!
