Comments: People go to the mountains to escape the noise and populations of people in the towns and cities they come from. The idea of having a roller coaster in the middle of the solace we all seek while hiking, skiing and communing with nature is appalling! What an egregious idea for such a pristine place! This roller coaster ride will attract people who do not respect the mountain forests for their beauty, serenity and the fact that these forests are home to other creatures than humans. It is a chore to make sure people clean up after themselves and this blatant misuse of the mountain forest and the type of individuals it will attract will destroy the Sandia Peak serenity for big business profit at the expense of all of us who love it just the way it is. A majestic, spiritual destination of nature and not some Coney Island Six Flag Texas noise making, garbage producing destruction tool.
