Comments: Tourists/Visitors/Friends of New Mexico visit the Land of Enchantment for the clear air, breathtaking sunrises and sunsets. Relaxation at Tamaya Resort or Jemez Springs. While a theme park draws many New Mexicans to other states to visit 'Six Flags', I oppose the construction/DESTRUCTION of our sacred mountain for the profit/consumer/tourism industry. This area is the homeland to many animals, flora, etc. and the destruction of the Sandias for "outdoor enjoyment" for building a SINGLE roller coaster is not worth it - there are more attractions at Cliff's with more options. New Mexico's motto of Land of Enchantment would likely become tarnished over time if the continual destruction of cultural/natural areas occur. Overall, destruction of Sandia Mountain is not considerate to the former caretakers of the land. The area would likely contribute to the pollution in the city of Albuquerque, during the destruction period, as well as place burden on natural resources (e.g. water, sanitation) which are already limited at the Sandia peak and for residents in the area. For those reasons, I strongly oppose the destruction of Sandia Mountain.
