Comments: While I appreciate the desire to increase tourism to Albuquerque, the environmental impacts would be devastating. I do not believe that the funds generated from the proposed mountain roller coaster would be worth the environmental effects. May I remind you that we thought the ART project would bring tourism as well? All I did was add headaches and increase our deficit. Furthermore, we cannot continue to disrespect landmarks that are culturally important to native communities. It would be unethical to say the least if the Sandia Pueblo did not endorse the idea. The open space we have so close to metro areas is arguably one of the best things about living in Albuquerque. If you decide to build, I hope you expect not only career destroying blowback, but civilian protests and sabotage at every step of the way. The choice is yours, make the right choice for Albuquerque.
