Comments: To whom it may concern:

As a lifelong resident of Albuquerque and a frequent visitor the National Forest and surrounding spaces, I am alarmed to learn that this project is being considered without a thorough environmental impact study. The obviously dubious necessity of such a feature in the Sandia Mountains is a point which I feel needs its own exploration, but if that decision making process has already passed, I feel, at minimum, that the long term environmental effect of placing such an "attraction" on the mountain be meticulously explored and disclosed.

Please do not rush into this.
