

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/31/2021 12:53:01 AM

First name: Zachary

Last name: Weston

Organization:

Title:

Comments: New Mexico already struggles to maintain accessible natural spaces-choosing to carpet-bomb one of our most revered natural treasures with up to 30,000 cars per year is an absolutely reprehensible way to treat the ecosystem and landscape that has sustained this State for centuries. Doing so for something as vapid and pointless as a rollercoaster only adds insult to (massive) injury. I hope that the NM Forest Service will reconsider this plan, as it will only further the destruction of the wildlife and ecology that calls Sandia Peak its home.