Comments: The Sandia Mountains are an inappropriate placement for a roller coaster. With the immense disruption drought and climate change are already making to the region, we need to make sure human disruption is lessened as much as feasible. Impact to rare wild spaces should be made only for benefit of the fragile ecology, not its detriment. This land is sacred to the Sandia Pueblo peoples, and it should be sacred to us all. There must be an Environmental Assessment or Environmental Impact Statement made prior to moving forward on any decisions.
