

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 3/31/2021 2:48:34 AM

First name: Lauren

Last name: Stutzman

Organization:

Title:

Comments: A roller coaster in the middle of lands and a mountain held sacred by the Tiwa people, specifically Sandia Pueblo is a horrible idea. Further, the communities on the backside of the mountain where Cibola National Forest and the ski hill access are already face erasure through gentrification. New Mexico generally is going to see an influx of new residents due to the movie and tech industries as well as those fleeing east and west coast cities in the aftermath of the pandemic. Please, let's make it more clear that New Mexico is sacred Indigenous land with a scarcity of resources. This place isn't a playground, it's a homeland and should be treated with extreme care.