Comments: I am upset that a project with no environmental impact assessment would be carried through in an old growth forest. I do not believe this project to be of any value to the surrounding area not only environmentally but also economically. This is of no asset to tourism and frankly sounds like an idea cultivated by a small child. Aside from the fact that this would be terrible for the environment, and that the idea is more juvenile than throwing toilet paper at a house, or saran wrapping a vehicle- it would detract from the attraction to current recreation.
