Comments: I would have to speak out against the mountain coaster. Though it certainly sounds like a lot of fun and would bring revenue to the area in the summer months, I don't like the idea of cutting down the trees it would take to build the coaster and it sounds like there hasn't been enough research on the environmental impact the coaster would have. The Sandias are a wonderful outdoor resource for people living in Albuquerque and I'm afraid the mountain coaster would bring in so many people it would make the area unattractive for those of us who are interested in a quieter outdoor experience.
