Comments: The Sandia Mountains is sacred to the Tiwa people and ancestral home to other South Western Indigenous groups. The construction of a roller coaster through these mountains is an unnecessary and false claim towards "recreation". It is irresponsible to pursue such project during a pandemic and one that will have long term harmful impact on the surrounding environment. It is inconsiderate of the Pueblo people who do not provide consent to such construction. NO to this project which also goes on to violate the National Environmental Protection Act (NEPA) without an Environmental Assessment and Environmental Impact Statement.
