Comments: These horses were here long before the cattle and have as much right if not more, to be allowed to live their lives in peace at least from humans. If humans intervene at all it should be to save them from the murderers. I made a point 20 years ago to see mustangs in the wild before they are gone and I'll never forget the thrill of seeing them come running around the side of a hill. Most of the time a half mile away they see you and run off. Please. Have a heart.
