Comments: The BLM wants to reduce the population of wild mustangs to as few as 50 animals on nearly 20,000-acres of public land, Heber Wild Horse Territory located in Navajo and Coconino Counties in the Black Canyon area, southwest of the town of Heber, Arizona. This does not benefit the public in any way, but only those allowed to graze cows and calves for profit. Research shows that the public supports the iconic animals staying as a larger herd on land that was designated for them. We want to be able to observe our Arizona past as evidenced by this historic herd.
