Comments: Wild horses are one of the most beautiful wonders on this planet. They are special and unique. Further more, they were here first. We shove them into corners, saying that we need more public land. Wild horses need over 2,300 acres per horse (high population) to maintain a healthy roaming life. Again, they were here first, we have been neglecting and throwing away these creatures that have brought us money and happiness. Please, don't let these iconic horses be driven into a corner.
