Comments: I have known the Quinn's personally for almost two decades and have been working with Points North Heli-Adventures either directly on staff or as one of their photographers since 2003. I have seen them mature as a couple, family and business owners. They are true stewards of natural resources and care deeply for the Cordova community and the Chugach Mountains. What's more, is they have changed peoples lives; from routinely giving people the best days of their lives in the Chugach, to couples meeting, marrying and having children to shaping peoples careers in aviation or as a guide. Kevin Quinn in particular is an excellent leader, guide and mentor to many.

His experience and long history in the Cordova Community (and being Alaskan-born) should be considered with regards to additional permitting. PNH knows the value in protecting the environment for their guests, community and future generations. The professionalism that Kevin demonstrates is backed up by his position within US Heli-Ski and now as a private Flight Instructor. Both of which meet demanding requirements and literally have life and death consequences. I personally have put my life in Kevin's hands-without hesitation, numerous times and wouldn't hesitate to do so again. His level of care and professionalism are simply that solid.

Lastly, I know they have been helpful in Search and Rescue operations when called upon by the Cordova community; (I've personally been involved in one). Myself and others from the PNH crew have put ourselves in harms-way in an effort to help during devastating circumstances. In short, the level of commitment to the community is unwavering.

Please contact me anytime and thank you for considering the requesting permitting.

Best regards,
