Comments: I really wish you would change your minds on this because what you intend to do goes against the spirit of the wild free roaming horses and burro's act. You are supposed to protect these animals. You can not claim there are too many of them when the land is awash with cattle. I haven't lived in Illinois most of my live to not be able to tell when the fix is in. If you don't like the condition of the land then get rid of the cows, they are not protected.
