

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/15/2021 4:43:50 AM

First name: Dallas

Last name: Beus

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I have grown up and spent my life in Idaho and Wyoming, I am 66 old and I have seen a serious degradation in the flora and fauna on all public lands from cattle grazing. They have ruined the watersheds and wild lands. The only good thing I can say about cattle ranchers is they aren't real estate developers! Wyoming reservoirs have become sewage holding ponds for cattle and I am not exaggerating.

They have destroyed plants and bushes by their weight, tromping them to dust. Cows are a terrible pest, the ranchers/corporations are doing tremendous damage to our public lands. I would also set strict limitations on off roading by ATVs,etc.