Comments: No! I totally oppose the proposed changes to grazing administration on our public lands!

Going back to the standards of the 1960s is...going backwards! Wrong-headed! Not following the data!

Livestock grazing has significant impact on soils and waterways.

Public lands are not set aside for the use and abuse by for-profit private companies.

The Forest Service needs to put conservation of land, water, and biodiversity at the top of its priorities! And the Agency needs to be at the vanguard of addressing climate change-and livestock grazing is not part of the solution!
