Comments: To Those In Charge,

Please understand that most of America doesn't care about the grazing of cattle. They would, however, if given the chance to vote on the use of their public lands, would vote to have their wildlife left in their habitats. We are a fat, greedy bunch. And the fact that most citizens are not made aware of the tragic grab for grazing that goes on, is a sin. These issues should be voted on. "We the people" love our wild animals, our horses and grazers that nature has put there. I don't care about domestic meat farmers. I care about keeping our natural habitats filled with the animals that have been there longer than this greed driven bunch of human beings. We should have national votes on what happens to every inch of public lands. I guarantee, this land grab crap would come to a screeching halt.
