Comments: Please eliminate or at least drastically reduce the amount of grazing on our public lands. These lands belong to all of us - and should be preserved in the most environmentally protective state possible. No one should graze their cattle, sheep or domestic animals on these lands. Millions of Americans want our wild lands to be expanded and preserved.

The negative impacts of livestock grazing are huge - they conflict with native species, degrade native flora, degrade water quality, and introduce invasive weeds. Domestic animals have no place on our wild lands. They contribute to the destruction of riparian and other important habitats, reduced forage for and displacement of native wildlife.

My family has always treasured our public lands - national parks, forests, etc. We want all of our lands to be protected and preserved for our wildlife. Please eliminate or at least drastically reduce the permits and number of domestic animals! Thank you.
