Comments: Do not allow livestock to graze public lands that have any hiking trails. I have had to take a scout troop thru a grazing area and the experience of miles of lost trail, cow dung, insects, polluted streams and smell made me never want to go thru that again. Higher incidences of wild animal interactions is surely to result with wider spread grazing on forest service land. This will lead to ranchers killing of endangered species (ie wolves, bears, lynx & cougars). Any grazing on forest service land should require mitigation for stream, lake and wetlands pollution and/or destruction as well as repair of trails and erosion areas.
