

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/16/2021 9:34:51 PM

First name: Sheila

Last name: Gille

Organization:

Title:

Comments: There is no reason why livestock should be grazing on public lands. Ranchers need to keep their livestock on their own properties for grazing. If they can't do that, they should not own livestock. The public lands we have, need to support the lives of wildlife as well as keep the balance of nature with native plants and waters in place and un-disturbed. A large number of native plants and animals are facing increasing threats to their survival, all due to people encroaching on their space. Additionally, public lands need to remain clean and unharmed so that people can visit and enjoy nature in a peaceful & natural atmosphere.