Comments: Do not graze in Forest Service Wilderness or forests. As a retired BLM employee, I worked on EISs that resulted in decisions about grazing. The wilderness areas and forests are unsuitable for grazing land use. These ecosystems will be destroyed by grazing and one can certainly look at Brazil as an example if Forest Service personnel are too young to remember what it was like before wilderness areas and forest were designated and protected. Many forest service employees worked their entire careers to designate these special areas. Do not waste their efforts at the whim of a previous President's regime. Thank you for your consideration.
