

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/17/2021 1:41:49 PM

First name: Suzanne

Last name: Charles;

Organization:

Title:

Comments: It is imperative that Public Land, including Wilderness, remain "untrammeled" as required by the Wilderness Act. The Rangeland Management Directives go directly against this. The aim should be to retire grazing permits, rather than increasing them. Rangeland Management Directives should be dropped. If the Forest Service wishes to amend its directives, it should undertake a more comprehensive rulemaking process that complies with the National Environmental Policy Act.