Comments: The impacts of human beings on the earth are so gigantic that two serious things are happening.

* Through the raising of animals for meat and dairy, we are putting Tremendous amounts of methane into the atmosphere.

* Because these animals trample native plants and destroy habitat for wild animals, we are rapidly losing biodiversity which is equivalent to drawing down a bank account so we will no longer have access to the riches we once had.

I am hoping that the forest service will carefully and responsibly lower the number of grazing animals on our forest service land, not reviving expired grazing permits and being careful to illuminate permits that are on sensitive land.

Thank you for paying attention to changing needs and growing awareness.
