Comments: The wild horses of Heber are part of America's heritage and history. It is up to us to preserve that heritage into future generations, and a responsible plan to do so should be part of the management of our resources and national system of parks and firsts.

There are ways to manage these wild horses that are a much better solution than their barbaric removal. Look at the public/ private partnership that is used to manage the Sal River Wild Horses in Arizona.

The American public has expressed over and over again that it is their will these wild herds be preserved. Please reconsider this removal plan.
