Comments: The Heber horse herd are the only horses in the state with their own dedicated territory, which was established in 1973. The herd was placed under a federal court order of protection in 2005. The Apache-Sitgreaves National Forests proposes reducing the herd's size from about 420 horses to no more than 104.

What is the purpose of such an enormous reduction when they are to be protected?? For more pillage of our native and public lands to enable ranchers to free graze at the cost of beauty of the wild?? This is cruel, inhumane, and unconscionable. Stop the depletion and cruelty.
