Comments: I am a big fan of horses, be they wild or domesticated. I have owned horses in the past, one was even described as a Mustang.

These wild horses have lived in the area almost since the beginning of humans in the area and they seem to be very well under control by themselves, in that they naturally control the size of the herd.

These wild horses are a great resource and should be left to themselves. I have no problem with observers regularly visiting the area and filming them in their natural habitat. Please just leave them alone. What they've been doing naturally themselves is working!!
