Comments: It has to be quite obvious by now that the Heber wild horses are a very loved aspect of this state. People from all around come to see these magnificent animals in a natural habitat. Reducing this herd to a size of only 50 is unheard of and would cause inbreeding and produce a sick herd. These animals are loved, it is plain to see from the outpouring of concern and comments about their well-being. The Heber wild horses need to be preserved and humanely managed through fertility control such as pzp which is a better alternative to expensive removal. Please listen to the voices and opinions of the people of this great state.
