

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/22/2021 1:02:55 PM

First name: Steve

Last name: Molick

Organization:

Title:

Comments: These horses have been around for decades and pose no foreseeable harm to the environment or to themselves. The balance of nature controls their ultimate destiny and not the interference by human interventionists. Closer studies are indicated before arriving at illogical & damaging assumptions. At the very worst if warranted, a small number of the younger horses could be rescued & transitioned into domestication at sanctuary farms.