Special area management.

This being an order, or directive for grazing management sounds very much like an excuse for other reasons. Directives that kill them guised as 'management' does not sit well with me; there may be many 'bad actors' benefiting..conflicts of interest at the state's taxpayers expense.

I think these horse should be managed properly with birth control, more access to land with water if an issue, or leave them where they are, as they are an asset to the state as well as ecotourism's big bucks to see them, coming from all around the world. The state needs the money with covid and people also win by staying outside on vacations.

These wild animals also have rights or should at least, to not be rounded up by helicopters, injured and/or killed by that or slaughter, or put in facilities at high cost for the remainder of their lives. It makes more sense to let them stay on the land in numbers close to now, or the same. Also to keep the fire fuel down as they do that, science-based data proves, fires kill people so we need the horses on the land eating sage etc. The cattle do the real damage, not the horses as much when they have space and birth control.

Thank you,
Cambria Smith
