Comments: I do not believe that your beautiful wild horses are causing. Damage to the ecoo system and Ido not believe that there is a risk of over populating. What I do know for sure this a question of money and ethics,.T he root of the problem lies with the greed of cattle farmers wanting every single acre for their cows to make money. I believe in the not too distant future meat eating will become a thing of the past, it's well documented that eating meat at this rate is unsustainable so we need to look at other ways of feeding the population. That being said you need to be ashamed of yourselves. America was built on the back of horses, they are an icon, they are part of the eco system, to take them away and bring in cows will be disastrous. Please for the sake ofthose beautiful creatures do the right thing, keep the horses where the rightly belongs.
