Comments: I am writing to express my opposition to another Canadian headquartered company proposing to harm lands in the United States. The subject property appears to be 100% owned by KORE Mining, but the impacts will extend visually and environmentally well beyond the boundaries of their property both for the proposed exploratory work and for any future shallow open pit mining, with heap leach and related nearby infrastructure.

As has been demonstrated time and time again, mining companies do not take responsibility for future environmental damage. The Long Valley needs to be preserved for recreational and other non-destructive uses.
