Comments: Have y'all lost your minds? Drilling and possible mining in the Forrest could endanger the local economy that is built around tourism. It is also clearly counter to all the money the state/fed has spent preserving our natural waterways. If 3 cores and 14 drill pads is the exploration what would actual mining look like? My family has enjoyed this part of California for generations and its unspoiled nature is the main draw for us and many other families. This proposed project could impact hundreds of thousands of users of InYo who are out here for a variety of reasons (hiking, fishing, camping, skiing, etc).
