Comments: This operation has the potential to destroy an already sensitive ecosystem. It is also a well used recreation area. The damage this operation could have upon this environment is astounding. It will absolutely destroy a beautiful area for a small concentration of the targeted mineral. Not only will the visual destruction be immense, the potential for chemicals leeching into the water supply is incredibly high. This does not have an affect only on the immediate location of the operation, just as the city of Los Angeles has damaged the entire area through their water use.
