Comments: I think that raising the limit is a good thing. Getting rid of it all together would be even better. People who come to the Oregon dunes are there to have fun and not worry about sound. It's just like going to the race track. You know that things may be loud but that is why you choose to go. It is part of riding at the dunes when you can hear the ATV'S and Side by Sides echoing through the trees and also helps with the safety aspect of things. You are able to hear something before you are able to see it.
