Comments: I am writing in support of the proposed project improvements to Universal Accessibility at Tamolitch Pool. I encourage the Forest Service to also consider installing Trail Access Information signs at the trailhead with information on elevation, grade, cross-slope, and surface for both the UA section and the entire trail. While discouraging people from sitting on barriers is understandable, benches should be placed where possible to allow ambulatory disabled hikers an opportunity to rest, particularly at viewpoints where standing to appreciate the view may be difficult. Interpretive exhibits in multiple formats, including braille and audio description units would further enhance accessibility, as well as provide a multi-sensory experience.
