Comments: Dear Mr. Schwartz:

As a resident of Southern California who frequents the Los Padres National Forest (and the Sespe Creek drainage in particular) for outdoor recreation, I strongly object to the proposal to undertake further fracking in this wild and beautiful place.

As an outdoorsman and a conservationist, I have seen the enormous toll that the current drought has taken on wildlife populations in the Los Padres National forest. To further imperil those populations by tainting tens of thousands of gallons of water with toxic chemicals and pumping it into the ground in this sensitive and unique watershed would be an extreme and unnecessary risk.

Sincerely,

Alex Young
