Comments: I have literally grown up dreaming of the day when I had kids old enough to show them my most favorite places in the entire world. We have raised our kids to practice the Leave No Trace mindset and have impressed upon them the dire importance of living what we speak. That said, please don't take this lifelong dream away from me. Give us a chance to correct this issue without losing access to some of the places that have given my life so much more meaning. We love Red River Gorge and hope to move and live in that community one day down the road. We have to do better as protectors of this great earth and I believe we can.
