Comments: Always keep the perspective that the national forests belong to all US citizens, not to any commercial enterprise (logging companies) and not to individuals who manage and work for the NFS.

Always consider the long-term impact on the forest of any contemplated action.

Preserve old-growth areas in each watershed, as required by forest service guidelines.

No timber harvests in areas that are Georgia's Mountain Treasures.

No new logging roads. Forest roads are never temporary, they are inroads into the forest that are used for decades.

No clear cutting; no delayed clear cutting: no cut half now and then cut the remaining trees later.

No thinning of forests for unjustified reasons.

Preserve diversity of tree ages and kinds of trees. Don't disturb areas that are unsuitable for timber harvesting.
