

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 8/11/2021 9:35:17 PM

First name: Tom

Last name: Labazzi

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Forests clean the air and mitigate global warming by storing carbon. We are losing forest land every day; for example, there is only one rainforest left in the world, in the Congo, that stores more carbon than it releases. We need to keep our forests healthy, and expand, not contract wilderness areas and forested areas. Also, We definitely should not use pesticides on any of our forest lands as that creates ground and surface water pollution hazards. Please keep or greenscapes healthy