Comments: As an born and raised Arizona resident, I've seen much of the Arizonan wildlife disappear in exchange of industrial corporations exploiting resources for their own profit and gain. The selling of more state land does less in the long term to anyone who resides here, especially when selling to out of state and country corporations. Environmental sustainability is something that needs to be more a priority than the profits of a small number of individuals. To those who read this comment be aware of the power that you have to prevent further destruction of our natural wildlife.
