Comments: I wanted to comment on the fact that sometimes I've seen stock tank improvements on the forest be very, very helpful to improving the environment in the water, show. In particular I'd like to call your current study teams' attention to our project that was done along West side road between sunspot and high rolls near cloud croft and it was a very effective project, reducing erosion and improving the risk of flooding downstream and my only comment is to say that I, I personally sort of like the famous standards that relate to what the value is sometimes of doing a stock tank improvement, and I would like the forest study team to consider the fact that they have very, very large benefits. If we can reduce a high travel area and an allotment that might contribute to sedimentation and everything that's my comment, and I appreciate you listening.
