Comments: As an active user of public lands, I feel that the most important aspect of any management plan is to promote a wide variety of access options for all user types. There are so many areas that are very difficult for many people to access, especially during the winter, therefore I am against any plan that limits or eliminates over the snow vehicle access. Eliminating access to OSVs in one area will cause more congestion in the other areas where they're allowed which can create dangerous scenarios for all user groups.
