Comments: To Whom it may concern,

I am writing in regard to the proposal of the new forest service plan. I am very concerned that shutting down any areas to snowmobiles will create a dangerous congestion of backcountry users. With the increasing use of snowmobiles to access our public lands, packing all of these users into a condensed area will increase danger in avalanche terrain. At the same time increasing the unnecessary tension between user groups. The solution is not to take away the right of one user group. I urge you to consider the parts of Plan C where there is more terrain for snowmobiles to let the increasing number of users have the room they need to participate in backcountry travel safely.

Thank you
